DAY OF DECISION

Whole National Reform Noble Ticket Elected.

MO T OF THE REPRESENTATIVES RETURNED BY THE LIBERALS.

till a M-jority for the lategrity of the Constitution.

Humiliating Defeat of the Indepen dent Circus

Election day opened dismally as to the weather. When the ballots began to drop at 8 o'clock rain was falling, and it continued with hardly a break till noon. Some of the streets were in an awful mess, while the approaches to several voting places were bogs of deep mire. Yet the carriages in service of the different parties were constantly plying, conveying the indifferent and the weakly voters to the polls. There were four voting stalls in each precinct, and the voters were not hurried in marking their ballots.

Peace and quietness prevailed in the groups hanging about the polling places all day. Here and there was some of the native oratory heard which has always been incident to Hawaiian elections. The talk everywhere was the probability of a large number of ballots being spoiled by careless or ignorant marking under the new law. This proved to be the case when the counting had been accomplished. The loss on this score is believed by the National Reform party to have been theirs, as being largely caused by Portuguese on whom they reckoned. The result of the election turned out to be a realization of what the canvass of the National Reform party promised, excepting that it was a more decisive triumph for their Noble ticket than they anticipated. Taking the total results on the Island of Oahu, there is a majority elected against a constitutional convention. Mr. Wilder and Mr. Kauhi of the Representatives are counted in this majority. The former's sentiments had been publicly declared in his acceptance of the nomination. Mr. Kauhi was supported by the National Reformers for the reason that in the Legislature he disdained the leadership of Mr. Wilcox, and he has openly expressed himself against unconstitutional tampering with the Constitution. He was put on the Liberals' ticket because they could not get anybody who would dare meet him in his district. Mr. Kauhi is the only candidate elected by ac-

The counting of the ballots was prolonged on account of the road board election, yet by 9:30 o'clock the full results were known at the headquarters of the National Reform party. There was a large crowd gathered there and in the adjoining office of Mr. C. J. McCarthy annexed to the headquarters for the occasion. While the election of the trio of agitators-Ashford, Bush and Wilcox-was jointly and severally a source of regret when announced, it only enhanced the bursts of enthusiasm as the incoming returns first showed the Noble ticket safe, and ultimately affirmed its glorious triumph. When the totals had been read by Secretary McCarthy, there were great cheering and calls for the elected Nobles. Rattling speeches were made by Messrs. Ena, Peterson and Williams, thanking the workers and the party for the victory, and referring pointedly to circumstances of the contest. Mr. Neumann was telephoned for and on arrival was loudly cheered. He addressed the company quietly in conversational tones, causing roars of laughter as he gave his final compliments to the "Independent circus," which had imperilled the election of three supporters of the Constitution. Subjoined will be found the tabulated returns corrected by the latest official figures:
